

Excerpt from Life of Lord Byron, Vol. 5 of 6: With His Letters and Journals You owe me two letters - pay them. I want to know what you are about. The summer is over, and you will be back to Paris. Apropos of Paris, it was not Sophia Gail, but Sophia Gay - the English word Gay - who was my correspondent. Can you tell who she is, as you did of the defunct? Have you gone on with your Poem? I have received the French of mine. Only think of being traduced into a foreign language in such an abominable travesty! It is useless to rail, but one cant help it. Have you got my Memoir copied?
